New Year Goals in 2025

Many Washingtonians are starting the year off by setting some goals. We asked different students and teachers to share their goals for 2025. Fabiloa, a 4th grade student said she has a goal to get better at math since it is fun to learn new things. Ms. Boyd, a third grade teacher said her goal is to read one book a month and focusing on staying healthy. Skye, a third grade student has a goal to have a great class by completing her work each day. Making goals are a great way to stay motivated throughout the year. We wish everyone a happy new year!

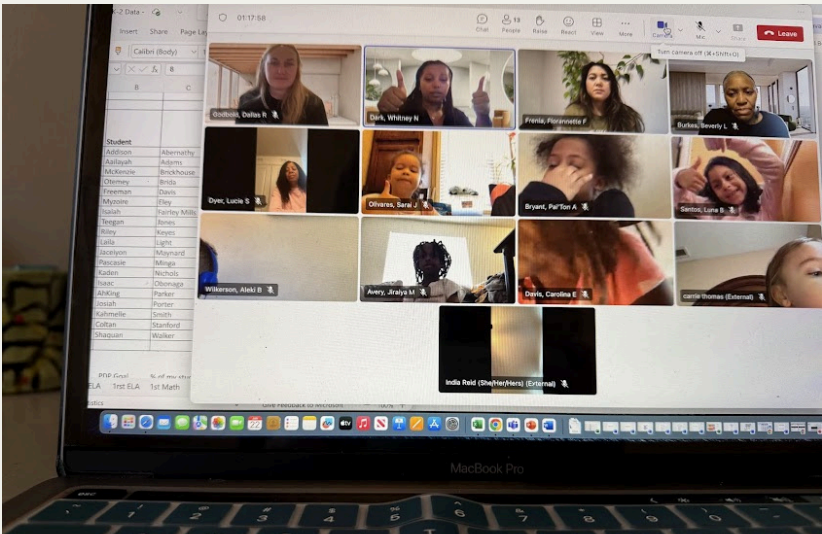

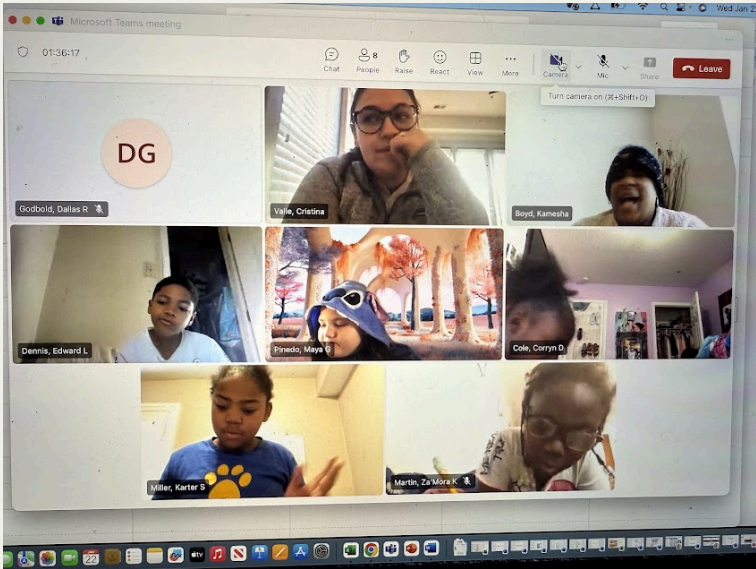

Girls like me Group with A & T Students

Select 4th and 5th grade girl have the opporunity to meet with students from A & T twice a month. During their meetings they discuss different topics such as STEM and goal setting. One of the highlights was getting to make rain clouds and planting seeds. It is a great opportunity to learn new things and talk to college students.

Remote Learning

During the month of January we had a lot of snowy weather! This resulted in students completing remote learning. It was nice to still get to interact with our teachers and classmates even while at home.

Art at Washington

In art this week, students are working on painting flowers. The first step before painting is to outline the drawing. What we enjoy about art the most is getting the chance to be creative.
