WHO WE ARE

Johnson Street Global Studies is a K-8 Magnet School located in the heart of High Point. We serve a small attendance zone, with majority of the students attending as magnet students. We operate on an extended-year calendar, attending school 20 additional days. By the end of eighth grade, our students have completed 180 more days than those in traditional schools. Our student body is rich in diversity, with over 20 different countries and cultures being represented. Through our global focus, each grade level focuses on two countries of study. This international focus helps student connect how their actions as individuals impact the larger community of their classroom and school, just as the actions of a single country impacts the world. Our goal is to establish a community of world-class learners and thinkers.
