

4th Grade News

Week of December 7-11

A Peek at the Week

Remember that students should be working hard to complete all assignments in order to attend the online party on December 11. The deadline for work to be completed is December 10th.

Math: We will begin looking at common factors and determining if numbers are prime or composite. We will practice finding factors using division.

ARC Skills: This week, we will continue to learn about text structures. Text structures are how an informational book is organized to share main ideas and details. We have already learned about description webs and chronological order/sequence of events. This week we will learn about compare/contrast, and cause/effect. There will be a quiz on Thursday, December 10th.

Reading Groups: We have had low participation in our online reading groups and are re-examining how we will structure these groups. We will continue to meet with groups to research for animal adaptations, but will likely move to one to one conferences for reading skill practice. We will post any changes. Please be on the lookout in Canvas and Class DoJo.

Important Updates

Pre-Recorded Lessons:

It is expected that your child watch the pre-recorded math lesson and complete the problem set before attending live lessons with their teacher.

ELA recordings should also be watched before the 9:00 live time. These recordings can be found on the weekly ELA Canvas page.

Canvas Inbox:

We are sending messages to your child's Canvas Inbox to let them know of missing assignments or other information that needs to be shared.

Group Meeting Links: The TEAMS links for small group meetings will now be included with each day on the ELA Canvas page.

Important Dates

Dec. 8- Progress Reports will be mailed home

Dec 11- Class party (in teams) for those who have completed all work.

Dec. 23-Jan. 4- NO SCHOOL (Winter Break)

Parent Tips

- If your child has a device with alarms, please set alarms to go off a few minutes before they are expected to watch a pre-recorded lesson or to join their teacher for a live session.
- Log in to the Parent Portal on Powerschool to stay up to date on your child's Quarter 2 grades. Interim Reports will go home in December.
